

As Day of Decision Nears

Voter Turnout Urged

Mrs. Floretta Lauber, candidate for Arcadia City Council, urges voters of Arcadia to make sure that they go to the polls next Tuesday, April 9, to vote for the candidates of their choice.

Mrs. Lauber has pointed out in her many public appearances that the five men and women who will be serving on the council will be making decisions in the future which will affect every Arcadian.

She stresses the need for continuity in government to achieve the successful completion of current projects.

Floretta Lauber is fully aware of community needs; her knowledge is based on experience gained in serving a total of nine years on both the personnel board and the planning commission, of which she was a chairman and from her participation in community activities.

She is convinced that only an individual who has knowledge of the local areas of the city, with their highly diversified problems, will be in a position to serve its citizens competently.

Mrs. Lauber, with a 14-year background of business experience, is also an 18-year resident of the city. She assisted in Southern California Edison Company has filed with the California Public Utilities Commission for authorization to increase the still-upward-spiraling cost of foreign oil with an increase in fuel cost adjustment in retail bills effective May 1.

"The climbing cost of environmentally-necessary low-sulfur oil is beyond our control," Edward A. Myers Jr., Edison vice president, said. "Unfortunately, prices we have to pay to sit to generate electricity for our customers are almost completely determined by foreign oil producing governments. In 1970 we paid $2.22 per barrel. Last November, Edison was paying about $8 per barrel for fuel oil. Now, some purchases exceed $13.50 a barrel."

The proposed fuel cost adjustment would raise the bill of a residential customer using an average amount of electricity — about 450 kilowatt-hours monthly — by four cents a day, Myers said. The increase in revenues, approximately $128 million on an annual basis, will merely offset the higher cost of fuel, Myers pointed out.

"The increase is less than it otherwise would have been due to the fact our dependence on foreign oil has been reduced by customer conservation efforts. Also, heavy winter rainfall in the Pacific Northwest has permitted the purchase of quantities of excess hydro power from that region at reasonable prices," he said.

If the CPUC authorizes the current request for increase in the fuel cost adjustment, the average bill of typical customer groups will advance 6.8 percent for residential, 8.5 percent for commercial, and 11.6 percent for industrial, Myers noted.

The Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors has adopted recommended goals and objectives of its newly created American Revolution Bicentennial Commission calling for concerted celebration throughout the county in 1976.

Recommended guidelines of the 15-member Bicentennial Commission were approved by the board, establishing a general purpose and some immediate objectives of the commission for its part in planning and developing programs to commemorate the nation's 200th birthday.

The commission, functioning as an advisory group to the Board of Supervisors, will assist in the fact-finding and coordination of the 78 cities and all unincorporated communities of the county in a cooperative effort to invite "full participation" of all residents.

Commission objectives include:

—Distribution of standards in keeping with already established state and national standards;

—Development of procedures for coordination to avoid unnecessary competition and duplication;

—Endorsement of projects that meet standards and mission of the commission; and —Dissemination of information and incorporation of proposals for recommendations to the Board of Supervisors.

A commission recommendation to County Parkfield Hall be named as the initial county project of "lasting benefit" for the historical observance was also approved by the supervisors.

Nine County Officials Appointed to New SCAG

Nine Los Angeles County area officials are among the Southern California supervisors, mayors, councilmen and special agents who have been appointed to a newly created Southern California Association of Governments (SCAG) Task Force on Air Quality.

According to Harvey Gilbert, SCAG president and Burbank City councilman, they are: James Armstrong, councilman of Torrance; David S. Cunningham, councilman, City of Los Angeles; Claire McDonald, (POLITICAL ADVERTISEMENT)

"Since planning for transportation and land use are major activities of SCAG, the association has an obligation to work for the achievement of air quality goals, which are of concern to all of us."

SCAG is a planning and coordinating agency which deals with regional problems that affect more than 10 million Southern California residents. Urban growth, transportation and criminal justice are examples of such problems which transcend local boundaries. The association's membership is composed of the governments of Imperial, Los Angeles, Orange, Riverside, San Bernardino and Ventura counties, and the governments of 113 cities within those counties.

Gilbert explained that the task force was established in response to a request by the South Coast Air Basin Coordinating Council for a top-level advisory committee to assist the council in development of regional air quality management plan.

"Perhaps the other endeavor is more important within the South Coast Air Basin, than our coordinated effort to return our air to satisfactory level of quality," he noted. "This is especially true because solutions to the air pollution problem that are now actively under consideration involve transportation and land-use strategies, as well as direct emission controls."

Disease Epidemic

The State Health and Welfare Agency reports that alcoholism, venereal disease, drug abuse and dental disease have reached epidemic proportions in California. Reported cases of HD hit 100,000, while 500,000 are drug dependent, 1,250,000 have alcoholic problems and 50 per cent of the population suffers from some form of tooth decay.

State IWC in Big Move

Rules Revision Will Affect Five Million

The State Industrial Welfare Commission (IWC) has announced its revised regulations affecting nearly five million California workers.

The regulations, contained in generally titled IWC orders for 11 industries and three occupations, generally will do the following: regulate hours of work, overtime pay, and working conditions; protect minors, women, and, for the first time, men, as to certain working conditions, such as providing seats, change rooms, meal periods, and rest periods; exclude overtime coverage for workers employed under the Federal Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA).

The IWC orders are scheduled to become effective June 1.

The IWC's new orders require employers to provide both men and women workers lockers and a place to change their clothes when the occupation requires changing for work.

The 10-minute rest period every four hours "coffee break" is now commonplace for most workers included in the new IWC orders. New is a stipulation that employers can substitute an "equivalent personal privilege time."

The requirement that employers supply uniforms if they want their workers to wear them has been changed to read: "in industries, trades, occupations, and companies where by custom, practice or written agreement, uniforms are required and maintained entirely . . . in part by the employer, this section shall not invalidate such custom or practice."

According to Mr. Katherine Lowe, registrar, the honors list includes 53 per cent of the student body. A total of 200 students were named distinguished scholars, who must maintain GPAs of 3.5 or better. Dean's list students, those who have GPAs of at least 3.0, numbered 259, making a total of 459 honor students.

The college, one of the six Claremont Colleges, is a liberal arts campus with a curricular emphasis in public affairs.

Nearly half of the 800 students major in either political science or economics.

Top students include Michael Barthelmy and David Russell on the dean's list while Bruce Norman joined Andrew Stern on Arcadia's distinguished scholar list.

Rosemead students on the dean's list include Francisco Alvarez, Joe Chavez and Ramon Olivares.

San Gabriel residents contributed distinguished scholars Alan Robertson and Dan J. Rybicki.

Temple Citizens tallied one on the dean's list, Andrew Roundtree, while placing two, Ronald Lakey and Pizzolati, on the books as distinguished scholars.

More Refunds

Refunds to California taxpayers will "far exceed the $363 million refunded . . . last year," Controller Preston Flournoy said Thursday. Besides normal refunds for overpayments, millions of taxpayers will benefit from the one-shot Special Tax Credit, and 750,000 persons will receive the refund for Tax Credit for Reளer.

Panel on Milk Irked At Board

Indignant Los Angeles County milk commissioners Wednesday ignored a request from county supervisors that they stop taking financial support from Alta-Dena Dairy.

"I think that one of us or all of us should go up and talk to those clowns on the Board of Supervisors," said Dr. Robert Pottenger, commission secretary.

Commissioners — obviously irked by recent news stories — insisted that neither the press nor the politicians understand the operations of their commission.

Controversy has swirled around the commission since disclosure Tuesday that it is now being financed by the dairy it is supposed to supervise.

Commissioners noted that state law requires that the dairies being regulated must pay the extra costs of certifying the raw milk.

They said they could not cease to accept this financial support until a new method of financing was approved.
